Literal Or Spiritual?

The Bible-Word serves as a guide to learn how to overcome the world that is birthed into a flesh body. The Word serves all created souls for eternity from any consciousness. The Word is uniquely written in that it has individualized understanding for each and every soul in eternal existence. From the simplest of literal understandings to the depths of spiritual understanding. For each individual, the Word serves the flesh from the beginnings of a souls walk with God, to the extreme spiritual meanings that lead to a greater understanding through obedience-love for life and creation.

1Kings 20:28 is an example showing the differences between understanding from the literal flesh perspective, and the understanding from the spiritual perspective.

1Kings 20:28
And there came a man of God, and spake unto the king of Israel, and said, Thus saith the LORD, Because the Syrians have said, The LORD is God of the hills, but he is not God of the valleys, therefore will I deliver all this great multitude into thine hand, and ye shall know that I am the LORD.

When God created his creation, all was good. Why would he state he is not the God of the valleys? (See Also; Gen 1:4, 1:10, 1:18, 1:21 1:25, 1:31)

Hills from the Hebrew;

H2022 הֵר A shortened form of H2042; a mountain or range of hills (sometimes used figuratively).
H2042 הָרָר From an unused root meaning to loom up; a mountain.

Valleys from the Hebrew;

H6010 עֵמֶק From H6009; a vale (that is, broad depression).: - dale, vale, valley [often used as a part of proper names]. See also H1025. H6009 עָמַק A primitive root; to be (causatively make) deep (literally or figuratively): depth, be profound.

From the Hebrew definition, the literal understanding, is a hill and a valley. The hill and valley being a representation. To "loom up" means to become visible by rising up from a point or source. To "make deep" as a valley, is the opposite of a mountain or range of hills and a direction towards depth.

Romans being a different example but the same principle.

Rom 10:6-7 But the righteousness which is of faith speaketh on this wise, Say not in thine heart, Who shall ascend into heaven? (that is, to bring Christ down from above:) Or, Who shall descend into the deep? (that is, to bring up Christ again from the dead.)

God is the creator of all good. The depth, to cause to make deep as a valley would be in the progression in your relationship with God. Living a life progressing upward living by way of goodness-love.
The valley representing a soul that in an opposing manner of desired negativities. The point being is in that a soul should working towards a deeper understanding of love to "loom up" the hill and not going into a progression or entertain a negative path as in a valley or a progress that is going down.
